IN HIGH GEAR

Automotive is one of the core sectors of the Indian economy. It provides 37 million direct and indirect jobs while stimulating job creation in other industries, according to Mckinsey & Company, 2021. India is also emerging as a global hub for the auto-components industry, which accounts for 7.1% of India's Gross Domestic Product, according to Indian Brand Equity Foundation. This sector is also demonstrating high growth due to technological disruptions and government incentives to increase exports. In a world where sustainability is becoming increasingly important, it is imperative for successful companies pursuing growth, increasing resilience, and striving for leadership to mainstream and protect human rights.

WHAT IS HUMAN RIGHTS DUE DILIGENCE?

Human Rights Due Diligence is a proactive process of preventing, mitigating and addressing human rights risks posed by businesses to their stakeholders.

It can help create an enterprise that is

Non-discriminatory

Profitable

Sustainable

Governments around the world are adopting mandatory

CORPORATE HUMAN RIGHTS DUE DILIGENCE LAWS

French
Corporate Duty
of Vigilance
Law

German Supply
Chain Due
Diligence Act

Proposal for EU Directive
on Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence

and many more...
